

AT LAW OVER A PAUPER.The Case to be Tried Under an Old Colonial Statute of New Jersey.

The township of Mendham, Morris County, N. J., has been proceeding against the township of Hederickson, Hunterdon County, to compel the latter township to support Simon Kinney, a pauper who was 80 years old on the first day of April last, and who lately became dependent upon the poor fund of Mendham. Known as the Settlement Law, passed by the Legislature of New Jersey when what is now that state was a colony of New York, it now requires that each township in both the counties mentioned, were ignorant of its provisions, to contribute toward the support of the pauper. Township claims that the aged Kinney's legal place of settlement is in Hederickson Township, since he owned property there, and had resided there for many years. Kinney had been supported for several years by Jacob Nichols, a resident of Mendham, who is no longer able to do so.

The Mayor said he might nominate a successor to Police Commissioner Wheeler, and rumors added that the candidate will be Sherman Shock.
